

In Which the Author States the Truth

Introduction

“Fuck this”, you may say upon reading the title of this piece of work. I may have once agreed with you on this point, however, I am now older and wiser than I once was when I had such foolish ideas as that. This is not meant to be an opinion piece for it only speaks in absolute truths. Given that we can take this as a fact we will not be taking heed to any ideas that may seem to contradict our absolute truths in any way. Let us begin.

My Awakening

When I was a child I was told that we should love our neighbor as my father beat the ever-loving shit out of me. I took this to heart and made it a point to follow the lead of my great father in crafting a life which had the sole purpose of bringing joy and prosperity to others. On my 21st birthday I was given a prison sentence spanning 35 years as retribution for my kind acts towards humanity. The entirety of this text was written while I resided in the Cheshire Correctional Institute in Cheshire, Connecticut. We will dive deeper into the ill-fated day of my sentencing later on, but for now we will focus on the societal mindset which resulted in my incarceration.

The American populus has developed a mental condition which I like to describe as “micro-penis-mind”. Now this term is in no way meant to disparage the lesser endowed individuals of this world, but is moreso intended to convey the lack of moxy residing within a majority of the population. More specifically, the “micro-penis-mind” can be recognized within a person by observing any of the following symptoms:

1. Taking great lengths to ensure one’s image remains that of a poor man who attempts to act as though they are the spoiled child of a semi-successful oil tycoon millionaire who has always been self conscious of their lack of success compared to their peers in the petrol business even though they are quite well off in the grand scheme of things.
2. A bumper sticker reading “my son ate my ass in Mario Kart”.
3. Remaining quite quiet and somber as though one has done a great deal of contemplation in their life and that they would have a lot to teach you or at the least would have many interesting and profound things to say. Once their mouth is opened however, it is clear that they remained silent for so long in order to have enough time to process a statement that any kindergartner would envy containing about as little information as one could have in a sentence or two.
4. A double major in communications and political science.
5. A penis smaller than 19 inches (in width).

If any one of these symptoms is observed in a person that you see walking your neighborhood streets please call the following number immediately: 1-800-452-6067. I posit that these aspects of our society are driving the masses insane in droves and causing the contiguity of our unified psyche to degrade into that of a meth addict taking domicile within an overflowing porta potty. That is to say, these are societal happenings which precede a worldwide shift in perspective resulting in what I believe to be a modern golden era of ideological advancement.
